Morgan Bulkeley of Mount Washington and Cambridge, is now having a one-man show at Stux Gallery, 36 Newbury St., Boston. The show will run through Jan. 7 and features paintings of stores, tenements, beauty parlors giving you an inside peek through the many windows. The detail is exciting and the eye gets pulled easily into another reality. The gallery is open Tuesday through Saturday and would be worth a visit if you're in the area.

It's beginning to feel a lot like Christmas at the Red Lion Inn in Stockbridge. In addition to the beautiful decorations such as the tree in the lobby and the candy village and candy Santa, there are events during the week that are extra special. Pianist Margaret Rector plays Friday and Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons; harpist Corkey Christmas entertains on different nights. Other specials include the St. Georges Bell Ringers on Dec. 11 at 12:15; the Sweet Adeline on Dec. 18 at 2 p.m.; The Monument Mountain Chorus on Dec. 20 at 4 p.m. and Santa on Dec. 17 at 11 a.m.

Locals kicked up their heels Saturday night at the Monterey Fire House to benefit the Monterey Arts Council. The Contra Dance was to the music of the Mountain Laurel Band with caller Joe Baker leading the festivities. All female dancers agreed that fire chief Ray Tryon was the best swinger of all. His partner Ellen Pearson was also quite good and both showed attorneys Jim Lamme and Wendy Linscott of New Marlborough some of the finer points of the dances.

Delicious doughnuts and their holes were made by Michelle Miller so you know they were good. Peter Murkett of Monterey danced up a storm as did Harry Conklin. It's a good way to keep warm during a cold Berkshire winter.

And we noticed as we looked out of our Main Street window that Tommy Andrews of the Andrews Insurance Agency here seems to be letting his hair grow longer these days. Looks good.

One of Mount Washington artist Morgan Bulkeley's oil's, "Kiki and Art's" is now on view at the Stux Gallery in Boston where you can see the interior as well as the exterior of an otherwise simple building.
